Canadian Ace, "Hero of Malta," Is Hurt in Crash

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Pilot Officer George Beurling, who became the "hero of Malta," was killed today in a crash landing of his plane near Gibraltar.

His worst previous injury in years of fighting against the enemy over the beleaguered Mediterranean fortress of Malta was a minor head wound.

ON WAY TO CANADA

The lad from Verdun, Que., who had just recently on the day he landed his score of enemy planes by 20 destroying three aircraft. He had to bail out when the controls of his own plane were shot away, and came down in the sea.

Beurling, whose exploits won him the reputation of being one of the best fighter pilots in the R. A. F., was on his way home to Canada from Malta when he suffered the crash.

He was a passenger in a big four-motored machine which crashed into a hillside in the western part of Gibraltar, bounded back and fell into the sea.

IS REPORTED KILLED

Reports from La Linea, Spain, through Madrid, last night said 15 persons were killed, 11 injured, and a number missing out of the 32 who were aboard the plane, from Malta. Some of the 22 passengers were women and children.

The plane carried a crew of 10. Information here was not such that he will be permanently out of action.

On his last operations flight over Malta Beurling shot down three enemy planes to raise his score to 20 but had the control of his own plane shot away.

He bailed out and came down in the sea and was rescued by the R. A. F. and taken to hospital.

Britain Controls

All Truck Hauls

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Government control was placed today on all truck traffic for hauls of 50 miles or more. About 25,000 vehicles are affected by the action, taken to ease fuel, rubber and transport space.

Under government regulations, the trucks will be pooled, with steps taken to see that they are laden to full capacity on their runs to avoid unnecessary duplication of routes.

BAN NEW OUTLETS

Vast Range of Business Frozen at Present Status

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—(CP)—

"A vast range of Canadian business establishments is 'frozen' at its present status under a drastic price board order, effective today, which prohibits creation of new selling outlets, stocking of lines of goods not already handled and removal to larger premises, except under permit."

The establishment of new businesses is forbidden except in exceptional circumstances. All transfers of ownerships are made subject to permit which, the board said, will be granted in bona fide cases of sale or gift.

Purpose of the order is to prevent the multiplying of existing outlets at a time when supplies are becoming more and more restricted.

Stated the board chairman, said the view is taken that, except in a comparatively few special cases, existing businesses can adequately handle the available supply of goods and services.

The order applies alike to manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and the operators of service businesses. Information is being mailed by the board to the operators of all businesses under its jurisdiction.

Exempted from the order are:

- 1—Sales of newspapers, magazines or periodicals.
- 2—Any undertaking operated by the Dominion government or any province, or any agency thereof.
- 3—Religious, charitable, philanthropic and educational organizations.
- 4—Farmers, hunters, trappers, gardeners, livestock producers, and the operators of service businesses, in respect to the sale of their products in the natural state or after processing by them, except when they operate an urban retail place of business other than a stall in a market.
- 5—Operators of private boarding houses, in respect to the supplying of meals and refreshments.
- 6—Supplying of goods or services to the munitions department or agencies thereof, and the operator of a contract on Page 3, Col. 2.

Mayor Fry To Retain His Chair

Mayor John W. Fry was elected by acclamation for his sixth consecutive term of office when Alfred Russell, city clerk and returning officer, at noon Monday declared nominations in the municipal elections closed and no opponent filed nomination papers to contest the majority.

Mayor Fry will be sworn in for a further one-year term at the statutory meeting of the new council to be held on Monday, Nov. 16, at 2 p.m. It is his sixth consecutive term. He thus establishes a new peak for the majority in number of years served in consecutive terms in the chair.

For receipt of congratulations from members of the public attending the nominations Mayor Fry said that he had hoped that election could have been avoided because of the gravity of the war situation. He said that in Calgary the different municipal political parties are doing all possible to avoid an election.

"I am extremely pleased with the confidence given me by the citizens as evidenced by the acclamation," Mayor Fry said. "I have endeavored in the past to be faithful to the city and will continue to do so in the future. I have proved that I am able to manage a vast range of citizens in such a manner as to earn their appreciation. This is shown, not only by the acclamation, but by the long term of service they have been willing to give me," Mayor Fry added.

NOMINATIONS FEATURED

The nominations were featured by the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation of Ontario asked Premier Gordon Conant today "direct through the issue of the 'for' by-election in its vacant Ontario constituencies."

The request was made in a letter to the premier from C.C.F. Provincial Leader E. B. Joffe, and Vice-President M. J. Joffe, and F. A. Brewin. It asked a prompt reply "so that if you refuse to do so, the C.C.F. may be able to consider taking the issue to the courts."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP)—

The sinking of seven enemy ships and the damaging of three others, including a converted aircraft carrier set afire, by American submarines during recent operations in the Pacific were announced today by the United States Navy.

A communique reported that American submarines, operating in the Western and South Pacific had sunk one large passenger-cargo ship, two large tankers, two medium-sized and two small cargo ships, damaged and set afire one converted carrier, and damaged one destroyer and a medium-sized tanker.

These operations brought the total of enemy ships reported sunk or damaged by submarines in the Pacific since the outbreak of war to 133, of which were sunk, 20 probably sunk and 21 damaged.

YANKS KNOCK WATERS The last previous navy report on submarine action against the Japanese five-ship convoy, which a Oct. 14, reported the sinking of a heavy cruiser, plus one probable sunk and two damaged.

United States navy forces appeared to have the run of the waters around Guadalcanal as a result of the devastating blow to the Japanese navy on Oct. 26, when the Japanese navy lost three heavy cruisers and a destroyer to seven big ships.

Sask. Official Is In London For Alberta Appeal

SASKATCHEWAN, Nov. 2.—(CP)—

Hon. J. W. Eddy, K.C., Saskatchewan's Attorney General, arrived in Britain today, by plane, to appear in an apparently uneventful cross-examination of the Alberta appeal.

Premier W. J. Patterson, telephoned Saturday, said this attorney-general was to appear in the appeal of the Alberta debt adjustment legislation.

He said that the appeal is being heard by the Supreme Court in London, Ontario and New Brunswick will support the Alberta appeal.

HELD ULTRA VIRES

The government of Canada recently declared Alberta debt legislation ultra vires of the provincial legislature. If the reasons given by the Supreme Court were upheld, Mr. Eddy stated, it would probably mean that other legislation of the prairie provinces would be nullified.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

Adolf Hitler's main war effort appears to be centering now on reaching Transcaucasia and its oil riches before it is too late.

Stalingrad and Egypt are in reality opposite ends of a long front where the Caucasus is the real objective. The northern flank of the German army, after the drive down the Volga to the Caspian, where Russia's southern flank route lies, apparently has failed.

To capture Stalingrad now would mean the German going into the pocket of the left flank against the city. If the German forces, which are now in the north of the city, could get into the city, they would be in a position to capture the city.

Appeal Court Rules On Farm Mortgages

CALGARY, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Only one method to recover money from open to holders of mortgages in arrears on farm lands, the Alberta Appeal Court ruled in important reasons for judgment just handed down here by Chief Justice MacKay.

The court held that the mortgagee is required to foreclose and obtain an order for sale of the land before realising money.

The court held out an order by the Alberta Appeal Court, which would have permitted the mortgagee to sue for the money due on the mortgage to adopt another method.

Under Mr. Justice O'Connor's order, the mortgagee of the Supreme Court of Calgary would have been appointed a receiver. He would have exercised control over the harvesting of the grain crop and the sale of the crop.

The Appeal Court held that such a method was contrary to Alberta legislation.

Ration Coupons 5, 6 Now Valid

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Coupons 5 and 6 on the first two sheets in the permanent ration books issued early in September become valid today for purchases of sugar.

The tea and coffee coupons are on the "spare A" sheet following the sugar coupons.

Each coupon is good for two weeks' supply—one pound of sugar and one pound of tea or coffee, or one pound of tea or coffee and one pound of sugar.

But only one coupon a consumer may purchase four weeks' supply at one time.

Under the new regulations which became valid Sept. 7 or Oct. 5, the Vichy radio reported today that 23 persons had been arrested at Bordeaux on charges of assisting the Fighting French cause.

GIVES IMPRESSIONS

"Imperialism of England" Right to Free Government Viscount Bennett Asserts

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Viscount Bennett told a Toronto audience that the "Imperialism of England" is so often misunderstood by so many people—has consisted of giving to the people of this and other lands the right to govern themselves.

The former Canadian prime minister took issue with Wendell Wilkie for recent references to India, declaring his belief that the only fair way to save the state in time of war is through systematic registration and call-up, and reported his impressions following a tour in which he has visited eight provinces.

Of these he said: "Between the Pacific and the Great Lakes I feel that there is a growing number of men and women in that area who say they would prefer to be governed by the United States than governed by a minority."

DICTATOR'S POWER
Another impression was that the people believed they were suffering from too much bureaucracy. One man was quoted as saying that dictatorial power they fed upon it. He said his heavy to remember that the British North America Act could not be amended at Ottawa. Provincial powers could be taken away only at Westminster. The test of the province of freedom was at what point this became necessary in order to maintain and further the war effort. The right of judicial review should be in the minds of the people constantly.

Viscount Bennett said "people are asking questions as to why the Canadian Army is idle."
"I can answer, I don't know why some Canadians will have to spend their fourth Christmas in England without firing a shot. They say that's not fair. I say they are for. Nor can I say why a second year was formed on the basis of a single division."
The speaker said he had found among Canadians "a deep-rooted resentment against an article in a United States magazine, and resentment against a recent speech by Wendell Wilkie, because he proposed to sabotage the British Empire."

GREAT MISTAKE
He continued: "I think it is a great mistake for any man to say he proposes to destroy the British empire. The greatest tribute to British greatness is the government of India. The aim and object of the Pax Britannica has always been self-government. India had been told she must make her own constitution. Does the voice of a dozen people represent 400,000,000?"

(In his address last Monday night Wilkie referred to the Indian problem and said "People of the East" would like to count on us (the United States) as double. They cannot understand from our government's wily-wahey attitude toward the problem of India what we are likely to feel at the end of the war about all the other hundreds of millions of Eastern peoples." He said also that "in Africa, in the Middle East, throughout the Arab world, as well as in the East and the whole Far East, freedom means the orderly but scheduled abolition of the colonial system."

At the outset Lord Bennett remarked that many completely misunderstood the whole fabric of empire. "Some have even said they would not have us as companions if we are fighting to maintain the integrity of the empire. Well, we are. And please God we will win."

England had learned early that men and women must fight for their own lives. Burke, Pitt, and Fox had opposed the measures that brought about the American revolution. The United States had been founded by Englishmen, and "the greatest Englishman of his time was George Washington."

SENSE OF GRATITUDE
"Every Canadian, French and English alike, must have a sense of great gratitude for the manner in which Britain has always treated those whom she conquered. It is true there was a battle on the Plains to Abraham. And the terms that concluded the peace of that time were so magnanimous as to challenge the admiration of the world. The French-speaking colonies had retained their rights of language, their freedom of religion—30 years before it was accorded to Britain itself—and their jurisprudence."

A dozen years later during the American revolution, people of Quebec told Franklin "we enjoy such freedom, such liberties, that we will not exchange them for anything you can offer." After the fall of Montreal, Quebec was saved by English marines and soldiers aided by the militia.

Again, during the civil war a number of congresses had proposed to annex Canada. But the British had retained her national integrity because she was a part of the British Empire. Her national resources had been left to the development of her own people.

The greatest promise of the Empire was Jan. Smith, who 40 years ago commanded the troops that destroyed the British Brigade before Magdalen.

STOOD ALONE
After the fall of France all that stood against destruction of Christian civilization was the Empire. Not England alone, for the Empire stood beside her. That empire called the British Empire.

cient and less equitable distribution."

Board officials said the order preventing a disorderly situation, should help existing businesses by which would develop if no control existed.

With the diversion of supplies under an uncontrolled system, there would be an incentive to producers to sell to stores, perhaps entering new lines, which felt they could pay more for certain goods than had been the case with others.

The freeing of businesses in their present status was said by officials to be "a necessary step in the program no. 7 under way for the future." Because of the order, some reserves of manpower might be released for other purposes but the main purpose of the order concerned the supply of goods, not manpower.

NO CLOSING
In respect to the business picture generally, there is no intention of closing down retail or any other stores arbitrarily, now or in the future," officials said.

"We are examining plans on what should be done about retail stores, just as we are examining plans on everything else, in line with the program for conservation of resources, human and material."

"We will not decide on closing an over-all number of stores. But each industry and its related units will be considered individually as the program proceeds."

"Our objective is to see that the bare requirements of the civilian population are met, and the remainder of Canadian strength placed behind the war effort."

Officials said there has been evidence of alarm among small retail stores that they would be the first to suffer in tightening board regulations covering business.

ALARM UNNECESSARY
"Such alarm is unnecessary," these spokesmen said. "The fair distribution of available supplies is our constant aim, and we have the small stores as much in mind as the large stores. We have the small man's interest permanently before us."

R. F. Chisholm, head of the board's industrial division, listed progressive steps in the curtailment program thus:

1.—Administrators will continue to work towards elimination of non-essential lines.
2.—Drastic standardization of continuing lines will continue, with new emphasis on releasing manpower in addition to reducing costs.

3.—Curtailement of over-all production to essential needs will be undertaken as the manpower situation requires it, and concentration of industry will come in this third stage of program.

Mr. Gordon said the effects of existing restrictions have not been fully experienced yet, but Canada has been living on stores accumulated prior to last December. Because certain supplies could be found in stores at present, no guarantee they would continue to be available, even under existing regulations.

Mr. Gordon said no decision on curtailing retail store hours had been reached, and the board had to be convinced that such curtailment would result in worthwhile savings of manpower, electric power, and other essentials before it was made effective.

SPECIAL PERMITS
Under the freeing order, recognition was being given special circumstances in areas where there had been a rapid growth in population due largely to war activities. Special permits for extension of business in such circumstances would be issued by the board's director of licensing.

In the case of business arrangements for which binding arrangements are in effect at the date of the board order, these generally will be approved, officials said.

It is expected the order will permit free movement of poultry from areas where production is heavy to areas of comparatively heavier consumption, a board statement said.

15 Ships Sunk In St. Lawrence Says Minister

QUEBEC, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Justice Minister St. Lawrence said Saturday night that between 10 and 15 ships have been sunk in the St. Lawrence this summer.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Lapointe-Drouin Liberal club, the justice minister said that "we are completing our effective forces and developing our navy to a point where next season we will be able to stop mariners from coming to board us as they did this year."

VERY UNPLEASANT
"Most certainly," he added, "it was very unpleasant for us that ships were sunk in the St. Lawrence, but from a war point of view, those sinkings were not more dire."

Under the freeing order, recognition was being given special circumstances in areas where there had been a rapid growth in population due largely to war activities. Special permits for extension of business in such circumstances

Business Firms Are Frozen at Present Status

A new business formed and carrying on for such purpose.

7.—The sale of goods or supplying of meals, refreshments or beverages in cantines or messes within the limits of military establishments.

BUSINESSES AFFECTED
The 10 types of service business covered by the freeing order are:

Warehousing and storage; undertaking and embalming; laundering and dry cleaning; hairdressing and beauty parlor services; plumbing and heating; painting and decorating; supplying meals, refreshments and beverages; renting and exhibiting moving pictures; any manufacturing process performed on custom or commission basis; and slaughtering.

As an instance of how the order will work, board officials said a storekeeper engaged in selling men's and boys' clothing might decide as supplies became restricted to branch into women's clothing as well. Since supplies will be sufficient only to supply the basic needs of the Canadian people, the storekeeper will be forced to remain in men's and boys' wear only, unless special conditions cause the board to grant him a permit.

The board is working on plans to carry out government policy in respect to the conservation of materials and manpower. The step now being taken not only furthers this objective but is as well aimed at the maintenance of a greater degree of stability for these engaged in trade and industry amidst the difficulties involved in the war effort.

"Another factor is that with certain goods in short supply the addition of unneeded production would inevitably result in inefficient distribution. This is also the existing difficulty of determining price ceilings for new goods and for new lines not previously stocked, which would be enormously increased if development of this kind were left uncontrolled."

MULTIPLY EFFECTS
The board said uncontrolled establishment of new businesses might in large measure nullify the efforts being made to curtail non-essential civilian activity and thereby release manpower for the armed forces and essential industries.

Uncontrolled addition of lines of goods by businesses which did not previously handle such lines would have substantially the same effect as the establishment of new industries, and tend to jeopardize the position of those concerns which have normally handled such lines."

The statement said: "As a result, new retail outlets, new warehouses, or factories would cause a further dispersal of inventories of goods, and essential conditions would make for less effective operation."

Marrying in Own Class Is Wise Thing to Do

It Provides Good Matrimonial Insurance; Cinderella Motif Great In Stories But In Real Life It's Different Tale

If you want to be happy through old-time who has bought herself married, marry in your own class. And that goes for religion, social position, education, money, taste and about everything else that makes domestic life pleasant and comfortable, or causes it to get on our nerves.

Marrying in your own class is the best matrimonial insurance you can take out, and in the long run it counts for a lot more than all the combined virtues and charms that our rules could promise, or even the grand passion itself. For what does it avail us to have a husband or wife who is a hero or a saint if we have not the same tastes and habits to enjoy? And how long will love last if it is subjected to the daily arguments? Nature, which devised the fatal fascination of opposites, is the first aid to divorce, and has a lot of misery to answer for.

RELIGION

The danger, for instance, of a couple marrying out of their own religion is so great that we shudder when we hear of anyone undertaking the reckless experiment, for ninety-nine out of a hundred it ends in disaster. They may be fond of each other, and the gospel of love, interfere with our love for each other. For, Heaven's sake, we hope we are civilized and broad enough to grant each other the privilege of worshipping God according to the dictates of our own consciences. But when comes to the show-down, they are bound to make a choice. And before they know it they are bickering and nagging over doctrines and dogmas. And then, when the place of strife instead of a haven of peace. There are plenty of things for husbands and wives to fight over without engaging in a Holy War.

SOCIAL POSITION

There is social position. The Cinderella motif is a sure recipe for a novel or movie, but it doesn't work out so good in real life. It is romantic to think of the aristocratic young millionaire marrying the poor girl who has lost her father and bearing her away to live with his social family. But the romance wears pretty thin when he discovers that she is uncouth and awkward in the ways of the world, and that all his women friends look down their noses at her.

And she poor soul, is of all women most miserable, because of her position that can still tell wife to the heart like knowing that her husband is ashamed of her. We pity the man who has married beneath him, as the phrase goes, but the one over whom we should pity is the wife. She is the victim of marrying out of her class. She is the one who has to wear the jewels, run grand houses in the world and come to her own not being back among her own people who thought her Miss America, and was treated at her jokes instead of criticizing her pronunciation.

Then there is age. That is one of the most important factors in the success or failure of a marriage. For the years that a girl between her and women that neither love, nor diplomacy, nor good intentions can bridge. When people like make of approximately their own ages, they have a fair show at happiness, but when December leads May to the altar, there haven't a ghost of a chance at anything but misery. Especially is this true of women. No sight on earth is more grotesque and tragic than that of a married

Speaking of Salvage How About Leftover Coffee?

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Those few drops of coffee left in the coffee maker, or that cup which was poured out, but not touched, can be used as a flavor-cup cold leftover coffee, 1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 table-spoon shortening, 1 egg, well-beaten, 2 table-spoons molasses, ½ cup chopped nuts.

One delicious use for leftover coffee is this mocha nut pudding.

Mocha Nut Pudding (Serves 4 to 6)

One half cup sifted flour, ½ tea-spoon salt, 1½ table-spoons baking powder, ½ cup fine dry breadcrumbs.

Mix and sift together flour, salt, baking powder and baking soda. Combine crumbs and coffee. Melt chocolate and shortening together over hot water. Beat egg and molasses and add to soaked crumbs. Add chocolate and shortening mixture. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and nuts. Place in buttered top of double boiler, cover, and steam over hot water for 1 hour. Unmold. Serve hot with whipped cream.

Your Baby And Mine

By MRS. MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

It is not always possible to calculate the probability of a baby's birth. Unless one is absolutely sure of the probable date of arrival a baby might be termed premature who was really due to be born.

In such case the weight of the baby might be a sure indication. The baby of five pounds or less in weight is apt to be premature. In such case it may be kept in an incubator until it reaches six pounds, which time it may be treated as a new-born baby.

Mrs. E. says her many was born at its seventh month and its low weight would certainly stamp it as premature. It weighed only 3 pounds and 13 ounces at birth and measured 17 inches. The girl now is six months old and weighs 14 pounds, 3 ounces and measures 21½ inches. Is she far behind the average?

"I have noticed in comparing her with the baby two months behind her in the things she does. Will the catch up as she grows older?" "She has been on milk for two months and gets four bottles a day. Usually she takes only about four or five ounces and then begins fussing to be fed again. A very tall order for the next feeding. In addition she gets cereal, baked or mashed potato, green vegetable, cooked steak, strained fruit and jam. Is there anything else you would suggest? Perhaps you have a leaflet on the premature?"

The leaflet on the subject dealt with the early home care of the premature and you would no longer be interested in that. But there are some alterations I think you could make.

Does the baby get cod liver oil or other vitamin D daily? Remember your baby despite its excellent weight gain, is only a month old and so her accompaniments, and her feeding, should be graded at that level, not at the six-month level.

For that reason a formula containing sugar, is make it more easily like breast milk, would be far more satisfying. Try 20 ounces of milk for the first four days, then 2 to 3 or more table-spoons of sugar divided into four bottles. I'm sure she'll take it all.

Potatoes are not in the diet at this age, what with cereal and puddings and all the rest of the very rich diet she now gets. Be assured that after the fifth year she'll be the equal of the baby born at full term. It is only now, when every day the baby learns something new, that differences are so clearly noticeable.

Our leaflet, "The Baby's First Year," would contain information also on care of the premature baby. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Elford in care of this newspaper.

This reason, it is called the resuscitation plant. These two plants seem to prove that a rose by any other name is NOT just as sweet.

McCoy Health Service

Stiffness is also to wrack and tortoise. It refers to a painful affection of the neck brought about by a contraction of the muscles which causes the neck to be twisted. As a consequence the head is held in an unusual position, with the back part of the head pulled toward the shoulder of the affected side or the side on which the muscles are shortened. The face is raised and tilted toward the opposite shoulder.

The patient finds it impossible to turn the head in a normal way and when he wishes to look toward the side it is necessary for him to turn the entire body. To his friends, his trouble may seem humorous, but I assure you it is far from funny to the victim.

Although a stiffness is quite an uncomfortable experience while it lasts, fortunately in most cases the difficulty will disappear within a few days. In some of the milder cases the painful stiffness may last for only a few hours.

There are several possible causes of wryneck in a patient having a tendency toward rheumatism, exposure to cold or to dampness may be sufficient to bring on the painful stiffness as such exposure may cause the rheumatic toxins to settle in the affected muscles. When a patient awakens in the morning without any previous history of exposure it is likely that the cause has been a strained position during the night. When the patient awakens upon the muscles or upon the nerves supporting them.

Wryneck may be the result of injury and is sometimes seen after a fall which has caused the muscles to be wrenched or twisted. This produces a painful stiffness which usually subsides within a few days. The trouble is often readily relieved through the application of heat to the stiff area, as heat will relax the tightened muscles.

Another helpful treatment is treatment given by a graduate of one of the manipulative schools and sometimes only one of these will bring complete relief. However, if the trouble has been present some time then several manipulations may be necessary.

It is perfectly true that in many instances patients recover from wryneck without any treatment whatsoever. I suggest that when you find your neck has become stiff and painful that you try applying heat right away. It does not matter what form of heat you use, as the main thing is to get it on the painful muscles and keep it there until you begin to get a little relief.

Use a small heat lamp, the hot water bottle, an electric pad, hot applications, or any other kind of heat treatment, and keep heat on the painful part for at least 15 minutes. You may need to keep it for 30 minutes. Repeat several times during the day, being careful to avoid chilling the parts once the heat is removed. If you live where a manipulative treatment is easily secured, then take one of these treatments. You will probably find

Here the message from your subconscious mind. You dream of being locked in? That means you are feeling helpless and discouraged in the face of some problem you aren't acknowledging. Meet the situation squarely.

Or perhaps you dream you are abandoned in a lonely place. You worry too much, thinking you're not so popular as you should be.

Let a distinguished psychologist show you how to interpret your dreams. In our 25-page booklet he explains the language of dream images and symbols, how to analyze from them the secret conflicts which affect your happiness. The Rose of Sharon is not a Rose!

The Rose of Sharon, of which the Bible speaks frequently, is not actually a rose at all, but a kind of lily growing in Palestine. It is sometimes classified as a narcissus of the meadow. The term Rose of Sharon is used to designate a European species of St. John's-wort. Likewise, the Rose of Jerico is not a rose, either. It is a Syrian plant which is known for its ability to live in drought by rolling up into a ball. When rains come again, it unfolds and seems to come to life a second time. For

"We speak about a new social order and a new world order, but we are only assured by our following the teaching of Jesus," he continued.

The War Today

BY JOHN COLLINGWOOD READE

One great thing about the Americans is that they have a vigorous public opinion. This is a national quality which they share with the British. It is not considered dishonouring to criticize, and a point of view which has become traditional in military organizations or Government departments through the enervating influence of routine can be altered in no time by the clamor of vigorous citizens who think for themselves and never lose sight of the main purpose for which organization was created.

The articles of Mr. Hanson Baldwin, the well-known military commentator of The New York Times, have had a profound effect upon public opinion, which has in its turn put pressure upon Washington. Mr. Baldwin visited the Southwest Pacific and took note of certain serious consequences resulting from flaws in the basic organization of United States forces. His laud explication carried conviction to people of good sense everywhere and it looks as though plans will be taken to rectify the defects of forces.

Great men sometimes make mistakes, and in the heat of the moment often say silly things. Mr. Churchill has said things of which he must afterward have repented, and has been punished by the British public for saying them, even though it continued to give his leadership its loyal support. Mr. Roosevelt has said some silly things, too, in a fit of rage at the proceedings of the press, he burst out with his famous remark about "twelve-year strategists," which is an odd gem. The most effective reply comes from Mr. Hanson Baldwin himself, whose analysis of the flaws in organizing the United States counter-offensive in the Southwest Pacific may well have been responsible for the removal of a rear admiral, and will probably result in a complete reorganization of United States forces.

DANGER OF GUILD SPIRIT

There is great danger of the guild spirit permeating professional soldiers and sailors. They come to regard themselves as masters of policy as well as technique. An expert is too often a person so well trained in a certain technique that he does not know when he has become out-moded. Since it is all he knows, he passionately resents the suggestion that his knowledge is no longer of value.

If Henry J. Kaiser had paid heed to the counsels of the professional engineers, he would have built the Grand Coulee Dam. If he had relied upon the advice of the leading shipbuilders, he would never have built a ship in ten days. By the same token, he would neither have built the Grand Coulee Dam nor broken all records for ship construction without the technical assistance of engineers and shipbuilders. The function of an expert is not to tell the chief executive what to do, but to apply his expert knowledge to devising ways of doing it.

The lively public protest against aggressive censorship, against the policies which have resulted in bootlegging, division of authority, confusion in administration, and shortsightedness in providing essential materials such as synthetic rubber, has had a most salutary effect. It reflects the true spirit of democracy. Without it, democracy is not a vital and efficient force; it is merely a blundering counterpart of totalitarianism. Bureaucracy is the worst and most inefficient form of government, and bureaucracy is government by experts.

The difficulty is that the qualifications of an expert are usually determined by his fellow-experts, and are seldom measured by his contribution to the common cause. Hitler's contempt for the democracies is based on the replacement of the vital democratic processes by an everling bureaucratic practice.

PUBLIC WILDS INFLUENCE
After setting up the most cumbersome bureaucracy in history, the American Government is being taken to task by its critics, and the force of public opinion is beginning to refashion the ponderous machine. One manifestation of this is the removal of control over aircraft production from the armed services and its transfer to the War Production Board. The result should be a much better use of available raw material and plant capacity, and an end to the ever-lasting wrangling among the procurement officers of three separate services as to who shall get what.

For the time being, the battle of the Southwest Pacific has died down. But the Japanese naval forces are still operating in the vicinity of the Solomon, the New Hebrides and the Fiji Islands in great strength. It is not certain that American forces on Guadalcanal outnumbered by Japanese land forces, but their problems reinforcement are serious, and they suffer from inferiority of guns and armor. Not only is the American counter-offensive in danger of collapse, but the new bases set up to protect the supply route to the United States in Australia are being threatened seriously.

The British offensive in Egypt is being conducted with prudence as well as skill. There is an air of leisurely inevitability about it. Not that the fighting is being done in a leisurely fashion, but General Montgomery intends to do General Rommel's work with unburied thoroughness. He is applying the lessons that experience has taught, and is well aware that success in the desert does not depend upon destroying and disarming the enemy. In the north and central sectors of the line, the British have won clear of the defenses the Germans had erected, and are fighting enemy forces on open ground. Unexpectedly stubborn resistance at the southern end of the line is delaying the application of a fully developed plan of battle, and further suggests that Rommel is preparing a trap which the British have no intention of walking into. Allied air activity continues on an undiminished scale by day and night. Another enemy tanker was sunk on Wednesday night, while on Tuesday night a heavy attack was made on a German airfield in Crete, where Axis troops and light equipment are assembled to be transported to the fighting front by air. Considerable damage was done to the airfield on Crete, and a Junkers 88 was shot down. Torpedo-carrying planes have been seen over enemy tankers, and this daily loss of shipping must be a serious handicap to him. Submarines and aircraft have either sunk or crippled four enemy ships in the month of

Premier is Urged To Seek Settlement Of India Dispute

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Thirteen Ohio State University faculty members in a letter made public Saturday asked Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada to seek early mediation of the deadlocked Anglo-Indian controversy as a means of "rendering an incalculable service to our ultimate victory over the enemy."

Questioning the advisability of intervention by the United Nations or the United States alone, the letter said in part:

"The circumstances of today's global war make conditions in India the direct concern... of all the United Nations. Mediation by the dominions would keep the controversy within the family of nations. It could not be criticized as outside interference."

The letter was signed by Joseph A. Leighton, professor emeritus of philosophy and 12 others.

Fix Lamb Prices For All Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Maximum wholesale and retail prices for carcasses, sides and cuts of lamb were fixed for all parts of Canada in an order issued by the Prices Board Friday afternoon.

Three schedules attached to the order specify the top wholesale price of carcasses and sides in each of the 12 Canadian zones for respectively, fresh and frozen lamb in the September-December period, frozen lamb from January to August, inclusive, and fresh lamb from November to January, inclusive.

The zones referred to are those set up in connection with the fixing of meat prices for beef. Sales during the period January to August inclusive, of carcasses or sides of fresh lamb obtained from lambs born in the same year the sale is made or in December immediately preceding, are exempted from the price ceiling.

A board statement said the structure of seasonal maximum prices introduced by the new order is designed to be permanent, and will therefore fix lamb futures some assurance in anticipating prices so that they may plan their operations with a degree of security.

Production in U.S. Reveals Increase During September

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The rate of production increase in the United States in four major arms categories—warplanes, ordnance, merchant ships, and naval and army vessels—improved in September, chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board reported Saturday.

In his fourth production communique, Nelson declared "we now are producing war goods on a scale which approaches four times the rate at the time of Pearl Harbor."

Nelson said that four-engine bomber output was "very nearly on schedule" and gave the first official hint that new aircraft factories have come into production this fall.

Humphrey Named Vice-President of C.P. East Lines
MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—(CP)—H. Humphrey, vice-president and general manager, has been appointed vice-president of Canadian Pacific Railway Company's lines east of the Great Lakes, it was announced yesterday by President D. C. Coleman.

The announcement said that "to assist in meeting the extraordinary and increasing demand upon the company's organization and services in Eastern Canada a general manager has been appointed who will devote himself especially to railway operating matters." He is E. J. Cotterill, who recently moved to Toronto from Calgary.

Mr. Humphrey will report to W. M. Neal, vice-president, and Mr. Cotterill will report to Mr. Humphrey.

Britain Tops Entire World In Production

CARDIFF, Nov. 2.—(CP)—Britain leads the nations of the world, ally or enemy, in the per capita production of war materials, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said yesterday, and announced that the improvement although the is near the limit of her manpower.

Britain's output including planes and ships, increased 14 per cent in September over August, he said in a speech here.

The increase for planes was nearly 20 per cent, while no monthly percentage was given for shipbuilding output. Britain's per capita output is twice that of any other country.

PLANE OUTPUT
Almost six tons of planes were produced in September for every ton produced in August, a record for a month, Morrison pointed out.

This small country, with its 45,000,000 people, has achieved a war output that stands in the front rank of productive achievements on either side," he said.

His output per head is greater than that of any other country, ally or enemy.

"We rejoice in the tremendous industrial achievement of our American friends and Allies. We welcome with enthusiasm the tremendous output of her shipbuilding industry—so much greater than our own."

"But it is still true that Britain's shipbuilding workers have an output twice as great per head as those of any other country."

MUCH EXPORTED
Morrison said 80 per cent of Britain's war production is shipped overseas, that the navy had taken safely to port 199 out of every 200 ships in convoy, that the country has 600 warships and auxiliaries constantly at sea and has destroyed, captured or damaged more than 125 enemy warships and more than 6,000,000 tons of his shipping.

3 Are Sentenced As Narcotic Ring Smashed in East

WINNIPEG, Ont. Nov. 2.—(CP)—Convicted on charges of unlawful possession and sale of narcotics, two women and a man Saturday were sentenced to penitentiary terms following what government agents described as the biggest narcotic ring-rundown in Canada since 1937.

James Humphries of Windsor was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary and fined $300 and costs on the sentences to run concurrently.

Ida Humphries, common-law wife of James Humphries, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on two charges and fined $200, sentences to run concurrently.

Estie Winans, Detroit, Mich., was sentenced to three years in penitentiary and fined $200. All three pleaded guilty to charges of trafficking in narcotics between Windsor and Detroit.

At Cowichan Bay, B.C., during August, 1942, sport fishermen took 100 salmon with average weight of 12 pounds.

"Slow are the steps of freedom... but her feet turn never backward"

Lowell

As our hardy forefathers wrested a living from the soil in days gone by, the passion for freedom was strong in their hearts. As their feet trudged slowly along the clean, true furrow, not once did they falter in their resolve to keep their homeland the land of the free.

Today, as enemies threaten to destroy our heritage of freedom, we must break the thongs that threaten to bind us. We must buy Victory Bonds, so that all within our borders may continue to live, speak and worship as free men.
